

Do your rumpled clothes and lank hair point to a life that has failed to live up to your high expectations? Do you think that the compromises you have made in your career have filled your life soullessness, and hopeless emptiness? Do you feel that whatever dreams you had in your life are now only self-destructive delusions which are choking on you? Would you say that you are on the brink of suffocating your unfulfilled hopes of early retirement and easy life? When asked: "Where is your compassion?" do you find yourself admitting that it is "nowhere"? You cannot even reach it yourself. Do you feel that you have become old and every look you made and every phrase you pronounce has so many different ingredients "mainly ironies? Do you feel that you have extraordinary talent which you are sacrificing in a mundane world? Are you a might-have-been? Whoever said that you were meant to be a big deal? Were you destined to be with the great and good? The most common question we all ask is what I shall do in my life. What is it that I am good at? I have an answer for you if you are interested in looking at the options of becoming self-employed. What kind of people are entrepreneurs? Are they risk takers, thrill seekers or just rebellious individual? If I think about Sir Richard Branson and the late dame Anita Roddick I would say that both of them fit to the myth of entrepreneurs. But let us remind ourselves of the words of Peter Jones who said that not everybody can become a rock star but everybody can become an entrepreneur. You notice that entrepreneurs are different than the rest of the population who hold a job. But how do they differ from the nine-to-five majority? What kind of personality do they have and particularly what characteristics of their personality are important in order to succeed in the business world? By becoming an entrepreneur you will become a different person. Transformation happens when you start challenging what is and begin to imagine what could be. Becoming an entrepreneur starts by asking a lot of questions. This is a state of mind when you would want to alter the future. Your future.
