

The book Rheumatoid Diseases Cured at Last was the beginning of The Arthritis Trust of America/Rheumatoid Disease Foundation, legally known as The Roger Wyburn-Mason & Jack M. Blount Foundation for the Eradication of Rheumatoid Disease, Inc. Roger Wyburn-Mason, M.D., Ph.D. was a world renown nerve specialist, having had two nerve diseases named after him prior to his death. Once he searched for and found a cure for the more than one hundred rheumatoid diseases, including rheumatoid arthritis, his fellow physicians began to shun him. After all, if a disease is incurable than no proper physician should claim that it isn't. Such is the mind of the modern medical profession. Dr. Wyburn-Mason claimed a one hundred per cent cure rate of rheumatoid diseases. He and fellow physicians who had actually tried his method could not interest those who professed to be interested in curing victims of this scourge. This foundation was begun to spread the news of a cure in the face of strong negative pharmaceutical interests as well as autocratic dictates from the general medical profession. The Arthritis Trust of America (our present AKA) began with the assumption that Roger Wyburn-Mason was correct, that his treatment resulted in a one hundred percent cure rate. Not so! After trial by numerous alternative/complementary practitioners it seemed that fifty percent was the best that could be expected, although some doctors got a consistent 80% cure rate. Fifty percent!? Eighty percent!? Where presently only immune system modulators and pain relievers are offered to all victims with a 0% cure rate? An additional article was added to this book.
